

Cityscope, an astounding amount of information

Cityscope is the leading expert reference tool for everything you need to know about commercial city property including sales, ownership and occupancy details.

Whether you're interested in Cityscope for research or lead generation, it offers a superior level of knowledge about commercial city property, saving you time and money.

Convenient and Easy

With Cityscope you can access the best commercial information online, with immediate results. Easy navigation makes it simple to use and means you get the information you need faster.

Experts in commercial real estate

The first Cityscope publication was issued in 1973. Since then, Cityscope has continued to grow its reputation for providing accurate and timely information about commercial property Australia-wide.

Cityscope contains detailed maps showing the precise boundaries in CBD's around Australia and New Zealand. It also gives an exhaustive list of other details such as ownership, sales, development proposals and occupant history.

Cityscope now has the backing of Australia's leading property data service, RP Data. A newly created division - RP Data Commercial is firmly committed to ongoing investments including product enhancements using the latest technology and commercial property experts to bring you the services you need to grow your business.

An expert tool for property-minded people

- Investors - Use Cityscope to better understand property sale prices, who is buying and selling and what's for sale.
- Developers - Use Cityscope to research who owns specific sites, who's lodging planning applications and what's currently under construction.
- If you're a property analyst, if you make or sell building materials, or if you're simply interested in urban history, geography or property valuation, Cityscope has a wealth of information waiting for you.
- Lastly as a Service Provider to organisations who use commercial property, Cityscope helps you find the information and contacts you require to make your marketing activities more effective.

Cityscope

Cityscope is a commercial property information service that provides information on over 50,000 commercial properties, within defined geographical regions. Cityscope contains details on properties including:

- Information about the location of the property, such as street address, site area and title details
- Details of the building itself, such as the year it was built, number of storeys, building name and the lettable area
- Tenant list, including telephone numbers and mailing addresses
- Details of sales prices, dates and general history
- Details of past and current development proposals
- Current ownership including owner name and address together with the details of company ownership (shareholders and directors) if the property is owned by a company

Lease Expiry Diary

The Lease Expiry Diary contains a record of leases within a defined geographic boundary. Lease records available in NSW include where possible the following:

- Building name
- Building address
- Registered lessee name
- Trading name
- Suite/level number
- Lease expiry date
- Options detail
- Contact mailing address
